

6th European Forum Let's Liberate Diversity!

The Let's Liberate Diversity! forums, hosted in rotation by various European countries, are annual gatherings of farmers and associations working on agricultural biodiversity in Europe. The forum's next edition will be held in Hungary in 2011 during the Hungarian presidency of the European Union. Its central theme will be the question of "farmers' rights" related to the conservation, sustainable use and development of crop biodiversity, recognized by the International Treaty on Plant Genetic Resources for Food and Agriculture.

The forum is mainly addressed to farmers, gardeners, seed artisans, bakers and processors of products derived from agricultural biodiversity, civil society organizations, researchers, breeders and representatives of gene banks as well as local communities implementing initiatives on crop biodiversity. We are encouraging particularly the participation of local initiatives from Central and Eastern Europe.

Date: February 25-26, 2011

Location: Hungary

Information: www.liberate-diversity-hungary2011.org

Organizers

Védegylet / Protect the Future (Hungary)

Csilla Kiss, csilla@vedegylet.hu

Environmental Social Science Research Group (Hungary)

Györgyi Bela, bela.gyorgyi@essrg.hu

European Organizing Committee

Réseau Semences Paysannes (France)

BEDE-Biodiversité, échanges et diffusion d'expériences (France)

Rete Semi Rurali (Italy)

Red de Semillas "Resembrando e Intercambiando" (Spain)

IG Saatgut (Arche Noah - Austria, Kultursaat e.V. - Germany, Pro Specie Rara - Switzerland)

Scottish Crofters' Federation (Scotland, UK)

Environmental and Social Justice Action Research Group (Central European University)